they have become convinced that the other Fed cities, with the exception of Baltimore, cannot make a successful fight against organized ball. But before the can obtain Weeghman and his partner can obtain the right to operate a new Chicago club in the American Association the consent of each of the National and American League club owners must be se-cured, and thereby hangs a tale. Charles Webb Murphy, owner of the Chicago Cubs, is prepared to fight this plan to the bitter end. Murphy, it is said, believes that if Weeghman is allowed to play American Association ball in Chicago the National League's inter-ests will suffer and in due time the Cubs may be asked to sell out to the present Fed leaders. Murphy is backed up in his contention by several other National League men. Because of this critical state of affairs, therefore, Mury is clamoring for a special meeting the National League to be held before annual schedule meeting on Febru-10 in this city. Murphy's contention, so insiders say, is that organized baseball already has the Federal League on the ropes and that the fight should go to a finish. The Cubs' owner argues that by exterminat-ing the Feds in a battle for gate re-ceipts there will be no further attempts in future years to cut into the sport controlled by the major and minor leagues. The magnates who believe that Murphy is right declare that when Weeghman has lost a fortune in trying to make the Feds successful his experi-ence will be a lesson which other wouldbe outlaw promoters next year will take careful consideration. he American League, on the other hand, is said to be unanimously in favor of the plan to take Weeghman into Chicago with an American Association franchise which will not be opposed by C. A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox. Club owners in both major league circuits who favor the transfer of the Toledo franchise to Chicago seem to think that it is better to kill the Federal League movement in this manner than to prolong a fight that will involve a tremendous loss of money.

To complete the plan to raise the International League to a major organization the Providence club, owned by Frank J. Navin of the Detroit club,

But in order to secure permission to invade Pittsburg, Washington or Brooklyn the unanimous consent of the National and American League clubs again must be obtained. With these obstacles in the way of a prescript settlement of in the way of a peaceful settlement of the present threatening controversy therefore there is no doubt that the division of opinion among organized baseball men has reached the acute stage. There will be a final verdict one way or another in the near future, and from present indications it looks like a fight to finish unless there is a complete back down by Murphy and those in the Na-tional League who believe he is right.

Secretary John B. Foster of the Giants found three signed contracts in the mail yesterday. John J. Murray, the popular right fielder, has signed for 1914, 1915 and 1916. Milton Stock, the young infielder, and Dave Robertson, who comes back from Mobile in the Southern Asso ciation, have sewed themselves up for one year each. Stock played shortstor for Mobile last year, batting 281 in 137 games and stealing forty-three bases, while Robertson's batting average was 332 in 135 games, with fifty-seven steals. The Boston Braves drafted Stock last recognized by the National Commission.
